Consul at Liege Hunts Home for Mike, Who Says He's From Texas.

WASHINGTON, June 40. - One American small boy, known only as "Mike," is waiting at Liege, Belgium, for the huge machinery of the United States Government to find him a home. "Mike" travelled to Paris with cowboys from the ship, the Consul reported to the State Department, and fell asleep in a cafe, while the cowboys went out "to see the town." They never came back. Gendarmes turned "Mike" over 10 the American Army on the Rhine as a mascot. Then an order for bade mascots, "Mike" trudged away to Belgium. Now Trenton, Tex. has dis-owned him as unknown there. The Consul said "Mike" had a distinct Bowery twang.

igan Senator. Witnesses were called in quick suc cession and for comparatively brie. periods to supplement testimony they had given at the trial of the criminal case against the Senator at Grand Rapids, Mich. The committee also heard at second hand what purported to be Mr. Ford's own theory of Senator Newberry's campaign from Allen Templetor berry's campaign from Allen Templeton of Detroit.

'Mr. Ford called me in after the election,' Mr. Templeton said, "and told me that he believed a gang of Jews were in a general conspiracy to control the Senate and the Government, and that they had backed Newberry. He said that a million dollars had been spent in the State to carry the election."

A. Victor Barnes, a brother-in-law of the Senator, said he gave $25,000 to the campaign without poing solicited. Alfred Lucking, counsel for Ford, read from trial records book accounts showing Mr. Barnes credited with $45,000. The investigation left unsettled the exact source of the extra $20,000.
